Bob:

Here is the package of guidelines in conjunction with the "Watergate" review. I don't know that it is necessary to go back to Bob Bannerman's logs and diary, but that is a matter of your judgment. You also may wish to examine the items relative to "Watergate" which may have been originated by Harold. In any event, the important actions are:

- a. Certify that a deliberate and reasoned judgment has been made not to examine records which you feel are not pertinent. Obviously, those records should be identified.
- b. Not to examine items which have already been identified and forwarded to the IG, and
- c. To identify those items which have not previously been uncovered which appear to be pertinent.
